The Advisory Committee, established by the United States Courts of the District of Columbia Circuit at the direction of the Judicial Conference of the United States, serves as an intermediary between individual lawyers and the formal judicial misconduct and disability complaint process. The Advisory Committee is charged with receiving and transmitting any concerns raised by members of the bar to each court’s chief judge. The Advisory Committee does not have any authority to investigate or evaluate any concerns but serves solely as a vehicle for members of the bar to submit concerns anonymously. The Advisory Committee serves all three courts in the circuit (appeals, district, and bankruptcy).

The Advisory Committee is composed of four lawyers, the chief judge of District Court, and the chief judge of the Court of Appeals, who serves as chair. The lawyer members of the Advisory Committee were appointed by the chief judges for a three-year term.
